

Welcome Home

(Lyrics ©2018 • Stephen Bloodsworth)

Things seem so crazy, frustration is everywhere
Days come and go like they're stamped and they're cloned
You zone out for hours not knowing what to feel
Heavy and listless so much like a drone
Scattered and angry no light up ahead
Lost in the past and the future you dread
Longing for something to turn this around
And then in an instant a presence is found
It's stirring within you a marvelous thing
Unfolding all by itself

Welcome Home, Welcome Home,
Burning like a precious stone
Welcome Home, Welcome Home,
Deeper than you've ever known
Welcome Home, Welcome Home
It's calling you back home

A feeling comes over you something familiar
Drawing you inward to where you began
Deeper and deeper you fall into, I don't know
Nothing to cling to and no need to care
Scattered and angry no light up ahead
Lost in the past and the future you dread
Longing for something to turn this around
And then in an instant a presence is found
It's stirring within you a marvelous thing
Unfolding all by itself